DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's amendment filed on September 11, 2008 has been entered. Claim 12 has been amended. Claims 10 and 13 have been cancelled. Claim 14 has been added. Claims 1-9, 11, 12, and 14 are now pending in this application, with claims 1, 5, 9, 11, and 12 being independent.
2. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 09/11/2008 has been entered.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 1-8 are allowed.
4. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The invention as claimed is not disclosed nor rendered obvious in view of the prior art of record. As to independent claims 1 and 5, the prior art of record fails to teach or suggest, alone or in combination, the recited method and communication network of providing preferential access for particular point-to-point calls between preferred users of a communication network wherein said particular calls are established via circuits between switching nodes.... a permanently reserved circuit segment being available only for said particular calls between users at least one of whom is a preferred user and not available for calls between users of said network neither of whom is a preferred user, and dynamically allocating circuit segments elected from said reserved segments and needed to set up a circuit from a preferred user in the event of a call set-up request by said preferred user. No prior art was found that discloses or teaches the limitations of claims 1 and 5.
5. Claims 2-4 and 6-8 are dependent upon claims 1 and 5, respectively, therefore claims 2-4 and 6-8 are allowed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 9, 11, 12, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Chugo et al. (US 5,425,019).
7. In regards to claims 9 and 11, Chugo discloses a method of providing preferred access for particular point-to-point calls between users of a network (See Fig. 4), said network including at least two switching nodes (See Fig. 4 and nodes A, B, and C) and a plurality of circuit segments (See Fig. 4 and virtual circuits (VC) identified by virtual circuit identifiers {VCI}) connected between said two switching nodes (See col. 12-13 lines 59-9), said method comprising the steps of: permanently reserving a subset of said circuit segments such that reserved (e.g., circuit for emergent calls) and unreserved segments (e.g., circuit for normal calls) are provided between said two switching nodes; according preferred status (e.g., emergent) to a subset of users of said network; and providing access to said reserved segments only for point-to-point calls involving a user having preferred status and not for calls involving users of said network neither of whom has said preferred status (See Abstract, col. 2 lines 16-37, and col. 5-6 lines 65-11).
8. In regards to claim 12, Chugo discloses a communications network including at least two switching nodes (See Fig. 4 and nodes A, B, and C) and a plurality of circuit segments (See Fig. 4 and virtual circuits (VC) identified by virtual circuit identifiers {VCI}) connected between said two switching nodes (See col. 12-13 lines 59-9), wherein said plurality of circuit segments include first and second segments with a point-to-point call involving a user having preferred status having higher priority access to said first segments than to said second segments (See col. 5 lines 52-59); and said network includes at least one of hardware and software which dynamically allocates said first segments only amongst point-to-point calls involving users of said network having said preferred status (e.g., emergent), wherein said first segments are only available to calls involving a user having said preferred status and are not available to calls involving a user not having said preferred status (See Abstract, col. 2 lines 16-37, and col. 5-6 lines 65-11).

9. In regards to claim 14, Chugo discloses a method, wherein said user has a higher priority access to said reserved segments and has a lower priority access to said unreserved segment (See col. 5 lines 52-59).

Response to Arguments

10. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-9, 11, 12, and 14 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
